

Thank you for inquiring about our new series. As we discussed, our company Hybrid Films is developing a television documentary series for the Oxygen Network that focuses on the day to day lives of real firefighters.

At this point in our development, we are doing preliminary research into various fire departments around the country. One of our priorities is to find a fire station that has a good mixture of men and women where we could film for a few weeks at a time.

Our series will follow the daily drama of working as a firefighter. We want to go beyond the firefighter mythology and stereotypes to show the real women and men, both on the job and at home, their highs and lows, and the personal qualities that define ³America's Bravest.²

Hybrid is a production company with extensive experience filming series with rescue and law enforcement professionals in their most dramatic and sensitive situations over the last decade we have spent months at a time following Hostage Negotiators, SWAT/rescue teams, and Homicide Detectives everywhere from the NYPD to the Memphis Police Department. We've spent time both on and off the job with the men and woman of those departments. It's a unique privilege to give them an opportunity to tell their own stories, and audiences a window into their lives. Our series, like ³Dog the Bounty Hunter,² ³Brooklyn North Homicide Squad² and ³King of Cars², air all over the world, and are some of the most successful and respected on television in the US today.

Attached is a flyer that we are distributing to fire stations asking for people to call us if they think their station would be good on television. Feel free to distribute it to your members. We are hoping to find a great, dynamic team at a station that goes on a decent amount of fire calls and that has at least one woman on the crew. If you have any thoughts on particular firehouses or firefighters that might be well suited to this project or ideas that you think would be interesting for our series I would love to hear more.

Best regards,

Dan

--

Daniel Flaherty
Producer
Hybrid Films
99 University Place, 9th Floor
New York, NY 10003
phone: 212.228.1020 ext 375

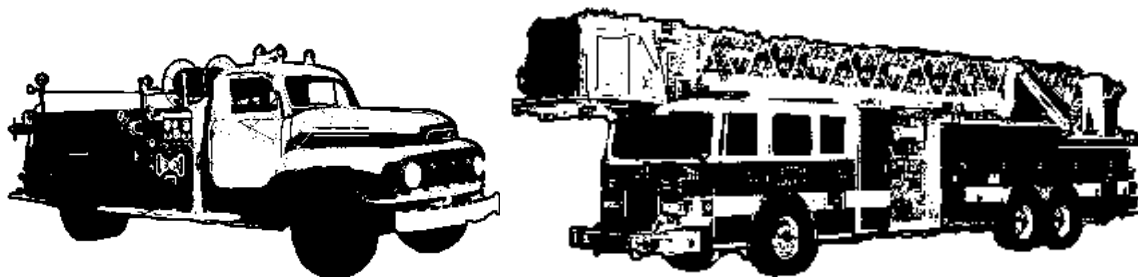

TV Series Seeks Fire Houses/Fire Fighters

HYBRID FILMS, an award-winning, New York-based, production company, is creating a new documentary series about the real lives of America's firefighters to air on the OXYGEN Network. We are seeking the right department with both women and men firefighters who are passionate about their jobs, live life to the fullest, and are eager to show the world what the fire service is really all about.

Tell us about the dedication, teamwork, and the pride of your department. We want to go beyond the firefighter mythology and stereotypes to show the real women and men, both on the job and at home, their highs and lows, and the personal qualities that define "America's Bravest."

Hybrid is a production company with extensive experience filming series with rescue and law enforcement professionals in their most dramatic and sensitive situations – over the last decade we have spent months at a time following Hostage Negotiators, SWAT/rescue teams, and Homicide Detectives everywhere from the NYPD to the Memphis Police Department. We've spent time both on and off the job with the men and woman of those departments. It's a unique privilege to give them an opportunity to tell their own stories, and audiences a window into their lives. Our series, like "Dog the Bounty Hunter," "Brooklyn North Homicide Squad" and "King of Cars", air all over the world, and are some of the most successful and respected on television in the US today.

Please contact the producers at Firehouse@hybridfilms.tv

Andrew Dunn, Laurissa James, Dan Flaherty, Po Kutchins

(212) 228-1020 Extension 385

READY TO TURN UP THE HEAT ON TV?

Do you think there should be more real firefighting shows, and that your or your crew should be featured in them?

Does your busy firehouse have a great team of both men and women firefighters who are passionate about their jobs, live life to the fullest, and are eager to show the world what firefighting is really all about?

Our award-winning production company is seeking the right fire department, ready to bring our cameras into their daily work and lives. We are creating a new ongoing documentary series for the Oxygen Network, and we want to hear from you.

Please contact the producers at:
Firehouse@hybridfilms.tv
(212) 228-1020 ext. 385

Andrew Dunn, Laurissa James,
Dan Flaherty, Po Kutchins

