MYFOXNY.COM - The Bed-Stuy Volunteer Ambulance Corp. of Brooklyn is heading to Haiti to assist in relief efforts.

The organization says it's in need of monetary donations, a five day supply of water to drink, canned food, packaged meals, respirator masks, satellite phones and medicine.

The agency says it is waiting on FAA clearance for a flight with other volunteer fire and rescue organizations. Representatives for Bed-Stuy Volunteer Ambulance Corp. says it will be at risk for illness within the first 12 hours of arrival.
