Emergency Vehicle Defensive Driving

July 14-16, 2015

Course Description:
Across all disciplines in the emergency services, vehicle operation-related incidents represent some of the leading causes of on the job injuries and fatalities. These incidents can occur regardless of the situation, while operators are responding to calls, arriving on scene, or returning to home station.

The Emergency Vehicle Defensive Driving Course is a unique drivers’ training program designed to meet the needs of vehicle operators in New York State’s diverse emergency response community. The course presents safe emergency driving techniques that are applicable to all responders, regardless of their mission or the type of vehicle they operate.

This course includes one day of classroom-based discussion followed by two days of skill lanes on the SPTC’s Emergency Vehicle Operations Track (EVOT). Students who have completed the EVDD: Principles course in a mobile delivery within 6 months may be waived out of the first day of EVDD. Please contact the SPTC for more information if applied.
