7:30am – 12pm
Residence Inn, Riverhead

Sponsored in part by the Northwell Health Trauma Institute and the Peconic Bay Medical Center CME
Statement of need: With the ever changing nature of trauma care, medical knowledge and evidence concerning pediatric and neurological trauma are constantly evolving. Additionally, it is imperative that we continually refresh on the proper transitions of care, as the trauma field is inherently diverse. This CME activity will focus on areas of uncertainty regarding trauma systems and transitions of care, as well as provide new insight into aspects of neurological and pediatric trauma that may not have been explored before.

- Review the neurological implications of trauma and the most current best practices in treating these issues
- Implement strategies for the initial management and stabilization of pediatric patients
- Explain the importance and degree to which transitions of care come into play specifically in trauma care

Target audience: Trauma, Critical Care and Emergency Medicine care providers, Emergency Medical Technicians, Ultrasound Technicians, Nurses, Nurse Practitioners, Physician Assistants, Pharmacists.
