March 20th 2020
at Mount Sinai Hospital for the 2nd Annual
New York Mobile Integrated Healthcare Conference!

Come learn about the current status and future happenings within Community Paramedicine and Mobile Integrated Healthcare, EMS telemedicine, health information exchange, and the ET3 model program, from leaders in EMS both from within and beyond New York State!

PROGRAM GOALS
- Provide an updated overview of the current models of Community Paramedicine and Mobile Integrated Healthcare (MIH) in the Greater NY region.
- Consider the evidence and data supporting these models, and explore preliminary outcomes.
- Review regulatory issues, payment models, as well as opportunities and progress being made toward achieving sustainability.
- Explore innovative care models, including the CMMI ET3 program.
- Accelerate discussion on region-wide initiatives to promote innovation in EMS.
We are pleased to announce this year's Keynote Speaker:

Brent Myers, MD, MPH. - Chief Medical Officer for ESO Solutions, and Past President of the National Association of EMS Physicians

Dr. Myers is an internationally recognized expert in the areas of EMS, Emergency Medicine, Population Management, and Clinical Informatics. He has served as President of the National Association of EMS physicians, has numerous peer-reviewed manuscripts, and is a highly-sought speaker in the international arena. He previously was the Director and Medical Director for the Wake EMS System in Raleigh, NC where his efforts focused on improving cardiac arrest survival as well as offering alternative destinations for a wide-range of patients. He currently serves as Chief Medical Officer for ESO, enhancing clinical data collection, interoperability, and conducting research to improve the health and safety of communities on a large scale.

Additional Speakers Include:

- Brock Daniels, MD - Assistant Professor of Clinical Emergency Medicine, Weill Cornell Medical College and Attending Physician, New York-Presbyterian Hospital
- Kevin Munjal, MD, MPH - Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine / Population Health, Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai and Medical Director for EMS & Population Health, Mount Sinai Hospital
- Jonathan Washko, MBA, NRP, AEMD - Assistant Vice President for CEMS & SkyHealth, Northwell Health

Coffee, Lunch, and Refreshments will be provided! Regional EMS CME will be available for EMS providers.
